About This Course

The Diploma of Human Resources will expose you to a broad spectrum of strategic HR areas. Cover in depth the management of recruitment and workforce planning strategies. Learn how to analyse the effectiveness of performance management systems, develop safety management plans, and implement a consultative workplace relations strategy.

Managing various HR functions comes with its challenges. It requires an understanding of business goals and needs to be able to direct the HR focus to best support these. Our long term partnership with large and small organisations hosting strong HR functions has allowed our permanent staff of HR experts to develop a qualification that focuses on applying best practice HR principles at a strategic level. This translates to a modern and practical qualification that is nationally recognised. At Diploma level, the focus is on managing the HR function. Foundation skills as a HR practitioner are therefore required.
